POLICY ON PUBLIC DEFENCE AND THESIS PRODUCTION COSTS

The Department of Archaeology and Classical Studies hereby undertakes, with the limitations set out below, to bear reasonable costs for public defences and the production of doctoral theses.

The costs reimbursed by the institution are:

- fees, travel and accommodation costs of the opponent,
- travel and accommodation costs of the examining committee.
- verified costs for technical printing advice,
- language review or English translation,
- printing and reproduction of a maximum of 300 copies, incl. 50 copies for the doctoral student,

Total thesis and public defence costs may not exceed the allowance the department receives from the faculty (currently SEK 40,000).

In order for reimbursement from the department to occur, the price quoted for the production must have been approved by the director before printing has begun. The Doctoral Education Board must also have provided an opinion supporting the presentation of the thesis in a public defence. Any cost increases after the approval of the quoted price will not be reimbursed by the department.
