Concept of the EEL programme

A programme that provides

- Solid foundations in EU, constitutional, and institutional law
- Focus on and specialisation in cutting-edge areas of European Economic Law
- Insights and skills in EU legal methodology
- Prepares for further research and practice
- Encourages critical thinking and debate

Structure of the EEL programme

Autumn semester

Spring semester

Content of the EEL programme

- Advanced European Economic Law (15 ECTS), devoted to issues of constitutional and methodological character.
- Elective specialisation course (15 ECTS)
 - Allow students to expand their knowledge in particular subjects of EEL and their relevant methodologies
 - EU Competition Law, or
 - The Digital Internal Market and its Social Dimension, or
 - EU Banking and Financial Law.
- Legal Methods in Research and Practice (15 ECTS)
 - Students develop skills in applying European legal methods through participating in a EU Moot Court and through interactive seminars and research workshops.
- The programme concludes with a Master thesis on a selected topic of EEL (15 ECTS).

Programme approach

- The programme builds on:
 - A close-knit group of master students
 - Accessible teaching staff
 - Variety of learning formats
 - Emphasis on active student participation
 - Social and extra-curriculum activities

Who should apply to our programme?

We cater to any and all outstanding students in Europe and globally, interested in EU Law and its economic and social implications.

Why EEL?

Academic environment

- Active academic environment (research and teaching) in European law
 - Institute of European Law: <http://www.instituteforeuropeiskratt.se/>
 - Stockholm Centre for Commercial Law (Section on European Commercial Law): <http://www.sccl.se/>
- The Law Department hosts:
 - the Swedish Network for European Legal Studies (SNEF): www.snef.se
 - the only Nordic European Law Journal (Europarättslig tidskrift): www.ert.se
- Master students have access to the activities of all these entities.

Why EEL?

Beyond the studies

- A highly appreciated week-long study trip to Luxemburg and Brussels
 - Includes visits to the European Court of Justice, the European Commission, The European Parliament, and leading Brussels law firms.
 - Gives students an insider view on the state of European Law, unlike other LL.M. programmes.
- Alumni network
 - comprises a large number of academics and practitioners, many of them having prominent positions at European institutions such as the ECJ, the Commission, Swedish and foreign universities, public agencies like the Swedish Competition Agency and Swedish National Board of Trade and leading law firms across the continent.
 - Three judges at the European Court of Justice or the General Court have been lecturers at Stockholm University, and two Judges are former LL.M. students. Few, if any, LL.M. programmes have so many alumni in the current colloquium of CJEU judges.
- Excellent career opportunities!

We look forward to meet you in
Stockholm next academic year!
