It was a pity that the course could not be held in person and I believe it would be even more engaging than in the virtual setting, especially for the team meetings in preparation for mock mediation/arbitration. However, I was amazed by the way everyone handled this extraordinary situation. Everything went smooth, the webinars were engaging, and I was always looking forward to each of them.
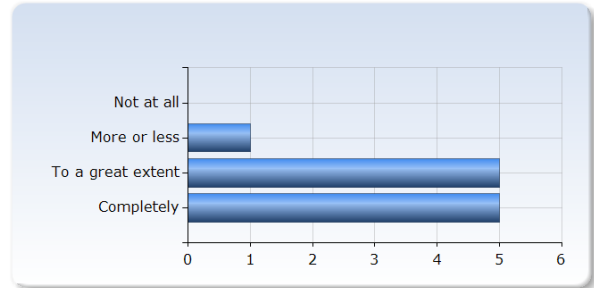

Yes! It was great!

I'm not sure to what extent my impression was influenced by the virtual setting, but I'd prefer to have the mock mediation session in smaller groups and maybe have more time for the mediation itself. In this setting it felt that we cannot really explore the other party's interests and that each speaker might have felt under pressure to seize at least a bit of time to talk.

Due to the large amount of submissions and tight deadlines the mock arbitration inhibited me to fully take part in the lectures due to time restraints. I learned a lot from the mock arbitration but it became a larger part of the course than the 20% it contributed to the grades.
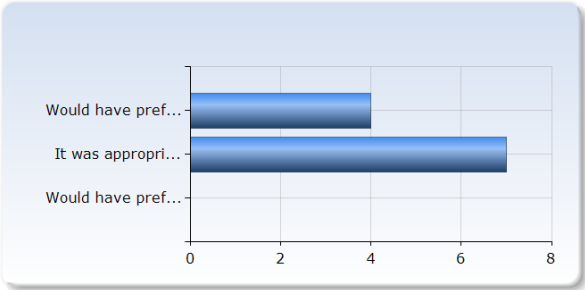

Such a good exercise!

The mock arbitration case was an interesting one with a great potential regarding the variety of issues. However, the dates in the case file were a bit confusing and probably not in line with each other especially given that the whole transaction had happened two years before the arbitration was commenced.

Yes, definitely! I would however would have liked if the feedback session of the mock arbitration was a little bit longer. It was at least good that you devided it up between the SCC/ICC-mocks. But I guess it was only details left to discuss and the majority is probably happy with only one hour - and I realize that the online enviroment did not allow for it, so no harm in that. It was just that we produced a lot of legal arguments and I don't really know what the quality of those argument are. Nevertheless, it was a really good exercise and finally a course that do a mock in a proper way. I do understand why some feel that this was the best moment in law school - and I am inclined to agree.

During the circumstances, it was appropriate. I like lectures, so for me, you could have doubled the amount, but in realation of what was demanded at the examinations and regarding the pandemic, I think it was appropriate.

Yes. Very much helpful. It felt like I could deep dive in to every power point slide if I needed to when working on the memo, mock or studying for the exam. I will definitely keep my notes for this course.

Yes. Of course, you havn't time to read every line of every book and reading assignment, but I do feel that it is the same as previous courses, so it was not more to do than before.

I spent approximately 40 hours each week

I don't really know exactly how much time I spent. Since I have kids in pre-school, I use all time that is left. However, this is also of course dependent of what your level of ambitions is. For me, I didn't spend more time than in previous courses at least - so I am very happy.

The level of difficulty was appropriate but the first question in the exam seemed very similar to the memo assignment in terms of the issues that arose. The second and third questions were completely fine.

You should get more time on the exam because the questions are really long

Make it more apparent how each assessment is weighted for calculating the final grade. This was not apparent from the syllabus or course description. I understand if this was because of rapid adaption of the course due to current circumstances, but I prefer to have advance knowledge of this as, I'm sure, do many other students.

I would like to say that this was by far the most fun I have had during my years studying law. It was really an amazing course and I'm really thankful for the teachers that have been so kind and helpful.
BIG THANK YOU

The course was brilliant and the entire COVID-19 situation was handled in an outstanding way. Undoubtedly, the best course I have ever taken in my life.

I think that the grade on the mock arbitration should be a bigger part of the final grade because of all the work that went into it.

Adminstration was excellent! Would've wanted more lectures that aren't repetitive, som lectures where extremly similar.

As mentioned above.

This was excellent! Thank you very much for all of your hard work to make this happen. I did not feel that the circumstances and online education limited the learning experience at all. I do understand that it was a bit harder for you since the lack of interaction makes it more difficult to teach, but at the "other end" of the lectures it was not really any different than previous courses. Of course, there were times when it was difficult to squeeze in a question at the right moment without interrupt, but over all it all was not obstructive to be able to learn. I guess that the more interesting thing in this is when you compare the exam results with previous years, but for a beginner, I will continue my life feeling like it all went great! :)
